

USING THE KNOWLEDGE OF PERSONOLOGY IN DISCOVERING YOUR GIFTS FOR THE RIGHT CAREER

Millions of people do jobs they do not like. Millions also have no idea what real potential they have, or what job would best be suited for them. Knowing your inherited traits and gifts will enable you to establish if you're a person with the gifts to:

- Love working with people.
Any customer services type jobs.
- Love working with people on a specific task or project.
Working in a team on a project.
- Love people and information.
Working with people such as librarian, teaching, medical.
- Love working with people and projects as well as information.
For example, scientific team on specific projects or engineering.
- Love information and things, rather than working with people.
Mechanics, construction workers, on specific projects or fields.
- Love working on projects and things, rather than with people.
Anything that they can do on their own – farming, driving, fishing, forestry etc.

You can avoid much frustration and save time wasting if you know your gifts before choosing a career and what you have a natural ability for, and what would be too challenging for you.

Learn the necessary skills to identify your traits, skills and gifts, and challenges, which are contained in the new book :

Face Reading – How to read the traits of the face

by Richard M Phelan

www.facereading.tv

Order your copy online today
£12.99

ISBN number 9781438923642.

THE FACE NEVER LIES