

USING THE KNOWLEDGE OF PERSONOLOGY HELPING PARENTS UNDERSTAND THEIR CHILDREN

It is a common problem where parents who think they have brought up their children successfully are shocked to find they have taken a course which can be criminal or have brought trouble on themselves. It is a fact that most offenders are very talented and have good potential, so why did they go off the rails? The following traits for example give us a clue:

- Risk taking
- Un-conventional
- Impulsive
- High tolerance
- Acquisitive
- Physically motivated

All these are excellent traits when given positive direction, but out of control will soon find the individual involved in such things as Joy riding, drug dealing, fights, permissiveness, stealing etc. The problem is basically the need for the trait to be stimulated in good positive constructive pursuits, either in sports, careers or even intellectual stimulation. When this stimulation is not catered for, the individual will seek the same stimulation and satisfaction from another source, usually something illegal, or in a way detrimental and causing regret. Parents recognizing such traits in their children can provide the proper direction and help to safeguard their children, ensuring they use their traits as gifts to bring out the best in them.

There are no bad traits, there are good traits and traits that are out of control.

Learn the necessary skills to identify your children's traits to bring the best out in them, by giving them good positive constructive direction, which are contained in the new book :

www.facereading.tv

Order your copy online today

£12.99

ISBN number 9781438923642.

THE FACE NEVER LIES

Face Reading – How to read the traits of the face

by Richard M Phelan